-Spectator Notes-

Mrs. Jeanne C. Tucker, prominent Democrat, has received word that she will be a sub-alternate at large to the Chicago Democratic Convention. Niles Cunningham of Salinas and Xum Speegle are the delegate and sub-delegate, respectively, from this county. Jeanne will be the only non-Salinas representative from this district.

Robert O'Connor, an eminent pianist and professor of piano at Arizona University, will occupy the Matthew Beaton home while the Beatons are vacationing this summer. O'Connor will devote his time to practice and enjoying Carmel while here... He's thinking of a move to the West Coast soon.

Grace Fontis has received her port call for the Pacific trip to Yokohama to join her husband, Capt. Norman Fontis, there. She will leave July 22. Mr. Benny, her Pug dog, will be going too, in a built-to-order crate-house. The shipboard quarters for Mr. Benny are luxurious, featuring a two level plan, with resting and living areas, built in dishes, and a battened down bed -- Kennel Beautiful.

The fire scare at the Lanz Shop last Saturday (it was only smoke from a demoting machine) brought a lot of downtowners rushing to see if they could be of help. Harriet Durican was one of the first to arrive offering aid, since she remembers the big Chop House fire of two years ago. It was next to her house, and she says everyone was "wonderful to me" then.

Latest in political pins is the little gold broom labeled "1952" -- nothing else. But along with the pin comes a little card which states that the wearer pledges him or herself as "a member of the BROOM BRIGADE." The card adds that the brigade will "crusade to return to the Constitutional Principles which have made our country great." Non-partisan do-gooders, no doubt.

July Fourth patrons of the Hill Theater's Circus show will be in on a worthy cause. Manager Bob Read is donating 10% of the day's receipts to the Seaside Whiskerino Camp Fund for underprivileged children. Patrons are also advised to arrive hungry as, in true circus style, hot dogs, cokes, and cracker-jack will be available in the auditorium during the show.

Red Carey is back from his Utah prospecting. He and his partner Ken Harbaugh are taking a week from their uranium hunt awaiting the arrival of a bulldozer at the claim. Red says they definitely established that there is uranium on the claim, but they must find out how much. First step is getting a road in and next is cutting away the top soil so that machines can record the outlines of the vein. Red says that they have to "take it pretty slow" when working at 8,000 feet after coming from sea level.

Due to the strike, The Hearthstone has a rather distinguished staff these days. Mark Thomas, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Geisen, and Mr. and Mrs. Elliott Jones. Mark is cook, Jack is bartender, Elliott is cashier, and the two ladies are serving drinks.

Les Hannah is getting orders for 'So Help Me Hannah' from all over the country now. The magazine American Family in the July issue noted its wondrous effects on poison oak and ivy. Other magazines are now on the trail. Last weekend a crew from Time-Life was in the area checking to see if it really works. They didn't rub themselves with poison oak, however -- they just asked questions of the natives.

If you saw the wonderful UPA cartoon at the Hill Theater last week, we'll bet you missed the last line because of loud laughter. The old man, walking out of the insurance company office, says, "55,000 people died in bathtubs alone last year. If they were in bathtubs they should have been alone."

CITY COUNCIL PROTESTS LA PLAYA BAR LICENSE

The Carmel city council has voted to protest the issuance of a fifth liquor license in the city. The application for an on-sale license has been made to the State Board of Equalization by Ashton Stanley for a cocktail lounge in the La Playa Hotel.

Because the council has protested, the state board will hold a hearing here in the near future. The protest is based on the fact that the bar would be in a residential area.

Stanley explained to the council that the lounge would be small and intended primarily for hotel guests. It would have no outside entrance. Fred Godwin, owner of the hotel which Stanley is leasing, said the installation of the bar would not adversely affect the neighborhood. He said the character of the hotel would not be changed.

Capt. H. M. Gleason presented a petition opposing the bar signed by 47 persons, "neighbors" of the La Playa, he said. This petition is enough to bring about a state board hearing. But the fact that the city protested also causes the hearing to be held in Carmel rather than in Salinas.

The council members assured Stanley that they trusted him to run the La Playa as it always has been run. They pointed out, however, that they are on record as being opposed to any new liquor licenses being brought into the city. Thus, they said, they must protest this application.

SIDEWALK SUPERINTENDENT turned landscaping engineer, Frank Putnam gives helpful suggestions while his partner, Mark Raggett, does final spadework on planting of this young live oak in front of their Ocean avenue dry goods store. Putnam and Raggett, who have provided another such tree for the sidewalk along their frontage, are urging other Carmel merchants to follow suit and thus enhance beauty of Village streets. Street Superintendent William L. Askew Sr., according to Putnam, has been "extremely cooperative" in having his men make sidewalk openings and do the actual planting. All that a merchant or property owner need do is furnish the tree; the Street Department will gladly do the rest. -- Arthur McEwen photo.

BACH FESTIVAL SOLOISTS

The Carmel Bach Festival, to be held from July 14 through July 20, under the direction of Gastone Usigli, will feature an imposing list of instrumental and vocal soloists. To take part in the two performances of the B Minor Mass on Sunday, July 20, are Phyllis Moffet, soprano, Eula Beal, contralto, James Schwabacher, tenor, and Donald Gramm, bass. Each will appear in one other concert in a solo capacity as well.

The eminent harpsichordist, Alice Ehlers, will be heard, with Alexander Murray, violinist, in all six of the Bach sonatas for violin and piano. Prominent piano soloists will be Julian Karolyi, making one of his first appearances in this country following a very successful European career, and Ruth Slenczynski whose professional career began at the age of four.

Ludwig Altman will be heard in two afternoon organ recitals at All Saints' Church. He will play works by Bach and his contemporaries and, in addition, will accompany Phyllis Moffet in a performance of a group of songs from the "Little Notebook for Anna Magdalena."

Ervin Mautner, who is concertmaster of the Festival orchestra, will assume the solo role in the Mozart Concerto for Violin and Orchestra in the concert which will open the fifteenth annual Bach Festival on Monday, July 14, at 8:30 p.m.

'WAY DOWN EAST' AT FIRST THEATER

A new melodrama, "Way Down East," opened last night at California's First Theater, to run through this weekend and weekends during the summer. The play is directed by Rhea Diveley and is a Denny-Watrous production. Prominent in the cast are Lt. Comdr. John J. Jorgensen, U.S.N., who plays the part of the doctor and who is an instructor at the U.S. Naval Postgraduate School. The villain, Lennox Sanderson, will be played by Milton M. Thornton. Kate, the heroine, will be played by Mary Burton. "Way Down East" will be reviewed next week.

LINE SCHOOL TO PRESENT "FIRST LADY"

A Broadway hit of a few seasons ago, "First Lady," will be presented by the Drama Group at the Line School Students' Wives Club on July 11 and 12 at 8:30 p.m. Leading roles in the show will be taken by Lcdr. John C. Eisele of Carmel and Mrs. Ralph Jacobs, Jr. of Pacific Grove. William Shepard, who has directed many First Theater plays, is lending his talents in the same capacity to "First Lady." The play will be given at the Naval Air Station Theater and tickets may be purchased in Carmel at Putnam and Raggett and the Browse Around Music Shop.

PORTUGUESE FESTIVAL NEXT WEEKEND

The beautiful and colorful "Feast of the Holy Ghost," with Queen St. Isabel, patron saint of Portugal being honored as well, will once again be held in Monterey, July 12 and 13.

The "Feast of the Holy Ghost" as it is celebrated by the Portuguese is a combination of two celebrations that through the centuries were combined into one by popular acclaim.

The "Feast of the Holy Ghost" commemorates the time in the 15th century when on the Island of San Miguel off the coast of Portugal, a great plague ravaged the island.

The surviving townsfolk crowded into the church and held a special Mass, praying for the plague to end. As they were praying the Holy Ghost appeared on the Altar of the Church in the form of a White Dove, and when the Mass was over the plague vanished from the town. Ever since, the Portuguese descendants of San Miguel and the Azores have honored the Holy Ghost at a great Feast where meat and bread was given free to all--rich and poor alike.

Queen St. Isabel, 1271-1336, of Portugal, is beloved by all Portuguese for her life of piety and devotion to the poor. She was a "living saint" with many miracles attributed to her during her life time.

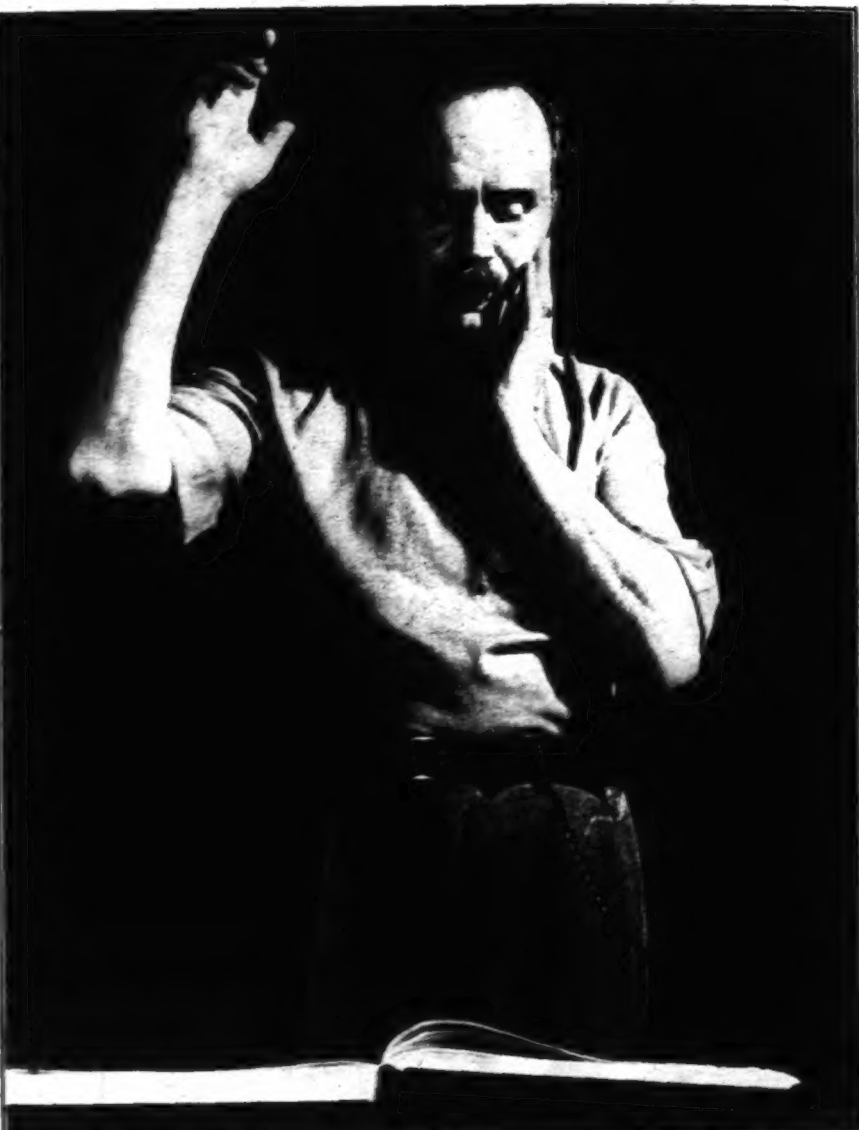

A grand ball, a large and colorful parade, High Mass at San Carlos Church (Royal Presidio Chapel) founded by Father Junipero Serra in 1770 followed by the feast of bread and meat, open to all and free of charge, are only part of the two-day celebration.

The Monterey Chapter of the Festa do Devino Espirito Santo, Portuguese organization, expects thousands to attend the "Feast of the Holy Ghost" and to honor Queen St. Isabel.

carmel valley Sun Spots

by PARKER KIMBALL

Author of the book for the up-coming musical comedy "That's the Ticket," to be produced in Forest Theater, August 28-31, is talented Mike Monahan, a Valleyite who is making good all around.. Mike, a this year grad from Santa Clara, recently won his school's Dramatic Arts Contest and a gold watch with a one-act taken from Chekov's "Tragedian in Spite of Himself"...With Owen Greenan, Mike wrote the smash musical of last year, "This Is It," which was put to music by lyricist Ricky Masten and songwriter Don Adams... "That's the Ticket" will have a fully developed plot, laid in "Bradford College," where a college professor gets embroiled with gangsters and crooked politicians..it is a nice sharp script by Monahan and there will be 20 original song and dance numbers... Valley young people of late highschool or college age are wanted for chorus numbers... How about Valley Variety dancers Alex Nason, Julie Paddock, and Diane Redding contributing their talents for the Valley's fame and glory?... Hope somebody will give these attractive hoofers the word...

Peninsula artist William Lofton will be tea-d this Sat. at Rancho Del Monte Country Club as part of Peggy Marquard's meet-the-local-art-world program..Lofton's sister and brother-in-law, Dr. and Mrs. Maurice Matteson of Frostburg, Maryland, will be there..Dr. Matteson is no mean artist, as well..plays a fine dulcimer, solmonican, and the zither..at the moment is giving a concert in S.F... ever wonder what a zither sounds like? No?.....

Formation of the Carmel Valley Soil Conservation District is underway with petitions being circulated to get the 51% signed up necessary for submission to the County Board of Supervisors for final action...But, it is about 25% signed up now. District will also assist farmers, ranchers, and land owners by making available technical advice and field assistance in solving their soil and water conservation problems.... Chairman Bob Wilson announces that the following persons have petitions for signing: Leonard Williams, Jean Cahoon, Mark Wilmot, Jay Huffman, and Walter's Hacienda Market; also Mr. Ewoldsen at Big Sur.

Top sportsevent of the summer will be the Carmel Valley Round-Up, 1952... Set for July 27 and sponsored, as usual, by the local Horsemen's Association. In its fourth year, the event is one of the biggest crowd-pullers in the Monterey area. There's a full card of rodeo events with prizes...Included is a ladies' single steer-stopping contest (huh?)...Entry blanks available soon.....

MRS. ELEANOR POYER of Carmel, an attractive blond woman, who is often seen in the uniform of the Red Cross, is currently, for the first time in her life, presenting the Red Cross with a problem. It seems that the RC has never before been confronted with a volunteer worker whose record of service stretches over 38 years. Since it is the custom of the organization to award medals to outstanding helpers, and since they have never before been faced with quite such a noble record, (Mrs. Poyer already possesses their beautiful 35 year decoration), they are now trying to figure just what, short of a halo, should be given to her.

Born and raised in Montclair, Mrs. Poyer went to Mrs. Gardner's School in New York, and later to Miss Baird's School in Connecticut. A year and a half of music and art study in Paris topped off, though she says that she was much too young to appreciate the City of Lights.

In 1915, just returned from France, Mrs. Poyer got her first taste of Red Cross work, driving an ambulance for the Red Cross during the dreadful flu epidemic that swept the United States during the war. Assigned to Fordham hospital, she drove on the night shift, dealing both with influenza victims and transporting wounded men from their ships to New York hospitals. This work occupied her until 1917, when she married Charles Edison Poyer, a nephew of Thomas Edison. Their son, Charles Edison Poyer, Jr., was born in 1920.

When her marriage ended in a divorce, Mrs. Poyer with sprightly ingenuity looked about for means of raising her boy, and settled on merchandising women's and children's clothing. She worked for a variety of New York stores, before moving to Chicago where she established a custom children's store, where all clothing was made to measure. Fond of New York, she returned there later and took a job as secretary to -- not one, but 17 English professors at Brown House of the University of N.Y. Though the professors were agreeable, there were really too many of them to keep contented, and when a friend suggested a move to San Francisco, she did so.

In 1946 she came to Carmel, and worked first as housekeeper of Pine Inn. After the death of his wife, Mrs. Poyer became housekeeper, secretary and chauffeur to John C. Dornin, the 87 year old retired president of the Springfield Insurance Company.

Currently Chairman of the Red Cross first aid program, Mrs. Poyer puts in much time both driving for the organization and entertaining soldiers in the Fort Ord Hospital. Her own boy is now in the Army at Hampton Rhodes, Virginia.

A golf enthusiast, until a back injury slowed her down a year or so ago, Mrs. Poyer now confines her sports to morning beach walks with her dog, Nia, a Dalmatian. She is active in All Saints' church work, and in the Carmel Women's Club.

FIRST TELEVISION SET INSTALLED ON CARMEL CABLE IS A GENERAL ELECTRIC MODEL

The first television set installed on the new coaxial cable in Carmel was put into operation this week at the home of Corum Jackson by Carl S. Rohr. The set, a General Electric 25th Anniversary model, was sold and installed by Mr. Rohr.

The coaxial cable, now being laid and maintained by the Monterey Peninsula Television Company, makes it possible to obtain good television reception for the first time in the Carmel area. Already in operation in Pebble Beach, the cable is now being brought into Carmel.

By using a scientifically-located central receiver and amplifiers, clear signals are received by individual sets through an underground cable. For an initial installation cost and small monthly payments, people in Pebble Beach and Carmel now, or soon, will be able to receive excellent television programs.

The new GE sets, which can be seen at Mr. Rohr's store, adapt themselves excellently to the cable system of reception.

The photograph above was taken at Mr. Jackson's home on Carmelo street the day the set was installed.

CRAFTS GUILD MEETING

The Potters, ceramic section of the Carmel Crafts Guild, met Thursday evening at the home of Bernice Huber, on Casanova and 10th, Carmel.

Bernice Huber's home was a manifestation of her varied talents. On the walls were interesting paintings in water color-- masks done in clay-- and on display were many of her pottery pieces.

The discussion of the evening centered on the results of pottery pieces, hand done (in Garden City clay) by various members of the group.

VALLEY SUN SPOTS (cont.) ted clerk, David Hoisington is the new president... The next meeting, July 15, is to put the new school budget in final shape before publication... Public hearings on the budget will be held in August....

GARDENING FOR HEALTH AND HAPPINESS

By CHARLES W. DELANEY

It is fun planning a winter garden. If the seeds were not planted in May, it is still not too late to do it now. We miss the wonderful colors during the drab and dreary winter days. You can have a colorful display if you plan now, for the plants will have developed a strong structure before the cold weather sets in. If the plants are too small they cease growing and fail to bloom abundantly.

Here are the best selections for winter bloom:

Calendulas: I like Lemon Queen. The pastel shade is not as free blooming as the more brilliant ones; the orange shades are difficult to combine with some red flowers.

Snapdragons: the tetra variety is superb and will bloom next summer if cut back eight inches above the soil. The tetra is rust and pest resistant and forms a fine plant.

Pansies: grown in pots - may be moved and should not be exposed to noon day sun. Buy the best seed; it is cheaper in the end. A new pastel variety is now available.

Bachelor Buttons: Blue Boy is a very fine blue. It also comes in white, rose pink, and a red-but Blue Boy is the best.

Primrose Malicoides: very nice for winter bloom. It does well in semi-shade.

Stocks: an old stand-by. The early giant imperial--a full double flower; the Santa Maria, a fine pure white; Buttercup, a soft canary yellow; Flesh, a fine shade of pink; Old Rose, a rose shade with a tinge of copper. There are also lavenders and reds in several shades. Stocks will not always come double; the average is about 65%. This is due to the fact that the double flower is sterile and does not form seed, whereas the single flowers do. Always plant the small plants as the large ones are often the single flower. When the single flower appears, just pull it up and discard.

Sweet Peas: may be planted in July. Protect them from birds until they are six to eight inches tall. Select a winter flowering strain.

Iceland Poppies: Plant in groups for a low effect. They do not transplant well, so sow them where you wish them to grow. After sowing the seed, cover with a piece of burlap and keep moist. Thin out plants so that they are eight inches apart each way.

Hyacinth Flowered Candytuft: a beautiful white flower. It is easily grown and may be sown directly in the flower bed.

The above list will give ample flowers and much pleasure in the winter days.

SOIL CONDITIONER

You have probably been reading about the new soil conditioner chemical. I have inquired about its use. It has no value in sandy soil.

Its use is indicated only in clay and adobe soils. It is not a fertilizer and has no food value. The clay and adobe soil is made more friable and will better absorb and hold water.

The way to use it is to work it into the soil from one to six inches. If it is sprinkled on the soil, it has very little if any value. Many exaggerated claims and statements have been made by enthusiastic writers. It will cause heavy soils to hold water and thus make them easier to cultivate. The price of the conditioner is quite high and unless it is used correctly and on the right kind of soil, it is a costly experiment. So, wait until further experience has consolidated the present information.

PEBBLE BEACH PROGRAM

Pebble Beach residents and guests will have a busy holiday weekend with special activities scheduled for the Beach Club Cypress Point Club, and the Monterey Peninsula Country Club.

The Beach Club has planned men's doubles and a mixed doubles tennis matches for 10:30 this morning (Friday). There will be yacht racing at Stillwater Cove at 11 and 2, and a special holiday luncheon will be served at the Beach Club from 12:30 until 3:30. That evening there will be a family beach picnic for members and their guests, to be followed by fireworks at 8:30 p.m.

Saturday, July 5, a "Yankee Doodle Dinner Dance" is to be held at the Beach Club for members and their guests, and on Sunday a special buffet luncheon at noon with movies for children at 4 o'clock.
